

About Sharing Cisco Unified Content

During a Cisco Unified meeting, participants can share content that resides on their computers so that other participants can see it. Additional features related to sharing become available when participants are sharing.

This document is intended for viewers who are currently attending a Cisco Unified meeting and have clicked a help link in a sharing-related area of the web meeting room.

For complete information about sharing-related features, functionality, and requirements, see the online help in your Cisco Unified application.
